Domestic and Sexual Violence in Utah

Domestic and sexual violence are two of the most serious violent crimes in Utah. Countless victims and survivors of domestic and sexual violence are enduring life threatening situations and suffer impacts which seriously reduce their quality of life. Domestic violence and rape and sexual assault affect all races, ethnic groups, educational levels, social and economic classes, religions, gender and physical and intellectual abilities. For many people, these crimes are hidden and rarely discussed in public. Many individuals will not recognize this violence as a public health issue that significantly impacts communities, families, and individuals. It is not mentioned in our conversations and that silence contributes to the continuation of domestic and sexual violence.

Domestic violence is characterized as a systematic pattern of physical, sexual, verbal, emotional, and psychological abuse, which is predominantly directed by men against women. This pattern of abuse may also include financial and spiritual abuse and threats of violence. Rather than a series of independent acts or events, it is most often part of a process in which the perpetrator maintains control and domination over the victim with whom he/she has a cohabitant or intimate relationship.

Sexual violence is characterized as any time a person is forced, coerced, and/or manipulated into any attempted or completed unwanted sexual contact. Victims of sexual violence can experience physical and psychological health issues. Physical injuries can include bruises, broken bones, chronic pelvic pain, and/or back pain. Sexual violence can not only result in transmission of sexual infection, and/or unwanted pregnancy, it can also result in emotional harm. A victim of sexual violence may develop Post-traumatic Stress Disorder, or experience depression, guilt, anxiety, embarrassment, flashbacks, fear or emotional detachment that can continue long after the assault.

The authors of this report are confident the information contained herein will further organize and revitalize the collaborative effort to end domestic and sexual violence in Utah. This report was made possible by the data provided by the following agencies:

Remember Me 2011

The Utah Domestic Violence Council compiles information on domestic violence related deaths from public sources statewide. To be listed, case specific information must demonstrate a correlation between domestic violence and the death of the victim as demonstrated by corroborating public information. From public information available, domestic violence is observed between 1) cohabitants, 2) persons in dating relationships, and 3) family members not defined within the cohabitant statute.

Utah Department of Human Services, Division of Child and Family Services

In Utah domestic violence in the presence of a child is considered child abuse. Although there have been some changes in the specifics of cases that are accepted, through current laws Utah continues to recognize the significant damage that can occur when children are exposed to domestic violence.

The Division of Child and Family Services (DCFS) is an agency under the State of Utah Department of Human Services. It directly services families and children impacted by domestic violence. Child Protective Services (CPS) offers services including assessment and referral to those impacted by domestic violence.

DCFS is responsible for the distribution of Federal and State resources to domestic violence shelters. DCFS provides direct intervention to families experiencing challenges associated with allegation of domestic violence as well as support to children and families with allegations of sexual abuse. The Division also provides referral to community services and treatment for children and families exposed to domestic violence and sexual abuse.

Both domestic violence and sexual abuse allegation information will be presented in this section. The data in the following section reflects data reported as statewide totals for fiscal year 2011, July 1 through June 30 2011.

Domestic Violence Shelters

Fifteen of the sixteen shelters located in the State of Utah contract with the Division of Child and Family Services to provide services to those impacted by domestic violence. Specific references to the location of shelters services are available at the end of this report.

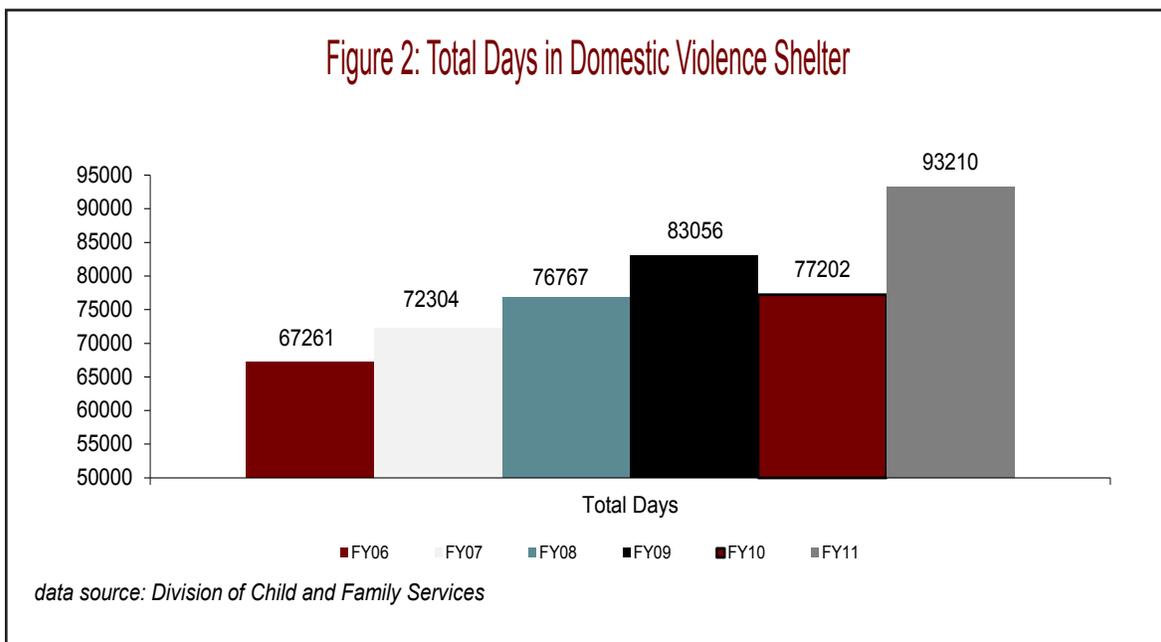

Clients may stay in a shelter for multiple types of domestic violence related abuse including; threats of violence, verbal abuse, physical and psychological violence and sexual violence or controlling behaviors. Shelters provide a variety of services to men, women and children. Services may include; safety planning, case management, referral to community services, individual and group counseling, support groups and community resource education. They may also provide assistance in the acquisition of protective orders and referral for perpetrator treatment. During FY 2011, the 15 DCFS-contracted shelters accepted 35,046 calls and sheltered 3,114 women, children and men for a total of 93,210 days. They were unable to meet 3,223 requests for shelter. There are a variety of ways a family may be referred to shelter services. They may access shelters services directly or through community referrals, as a result of a crisis call or from referral from a medical or law enforcement professional. Families may also be referred to shelter services as a result of a Child Protective Services Investigation.

Domestic Violence Victims Sheltered

A total of 3,114 women, men and children were sheltered in 15 Utah domestic violence shelters last year. The data in Figure 1 represent individuals who entered a domestic violence shelter. Men women and children are represented in the data since FY 2006. The number of women and children housed increased slightly while the number of men has increased significantly over the last six years. Children enter the shelter with their adult parent. That parent is considered as the primary client.

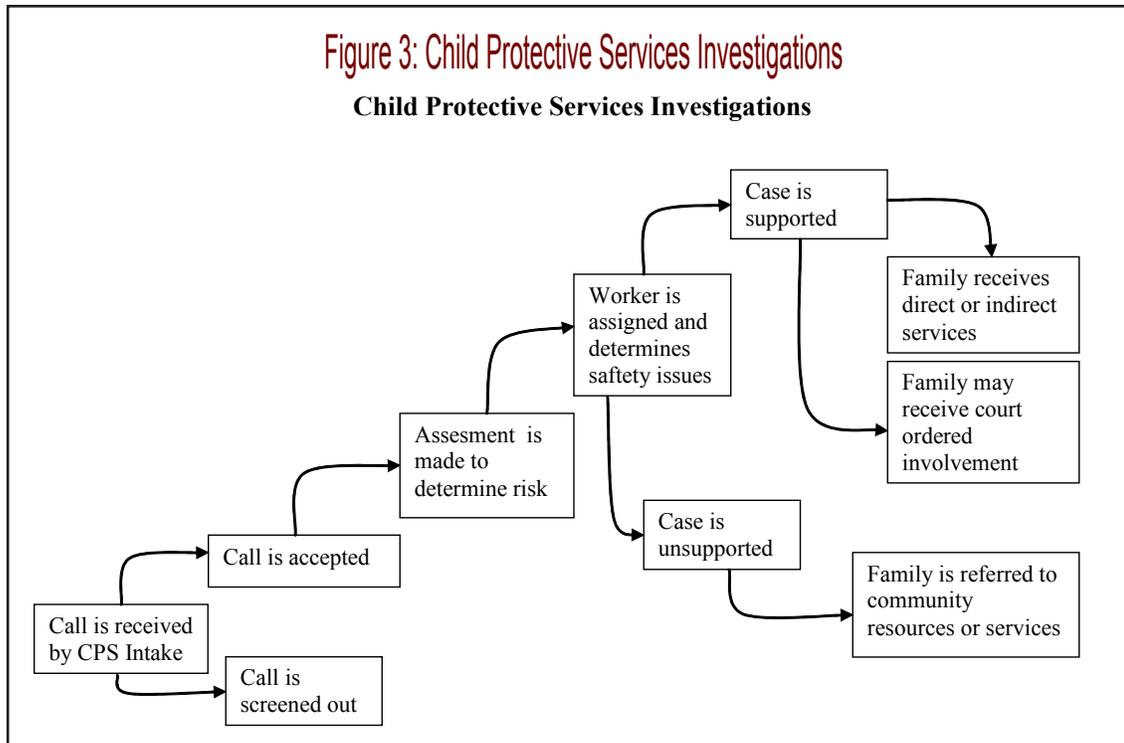

These shelter guests stayed a total of 93,210 days. The data in Figure 2 represent the total number of days clients, (men, women and children) stayed in one of the 15 shelters statewide during the fiscal year. The number of days is calculated using the start and end dates of each episode for each person. The average number of days per episode has increased from 24 days in FY 2009 to 26 days in 2010 to 29.9 days in FY 2011. This increase suggests that individuals entering shelter are staying in shelter for longer periods of time. This increase may be the result of ongoing economic challenges that make the process of transitioning from shelter to a more long term housing situation more difficult.

Child Protective Services Investigations

Child Protective Services (CPS) responds to calls from the community concerning potential abuse, neglect or dependency of children. CPS workers use the Safety-Decision Making Model to assess child safety. The model directs workers to assess three specific areas: 1-Threats of Harm, 2- Child Vulnerability and 3- Protective Capacity. Based on the information gathered as part of the assessment, a determination is made whether or not additional intervention is required to create safety. Interventions may include CPS workers providing educational intervention, referring to community services or resources, direct referral to treatment, DCFS In home services or, if the child cannot be maintained safely in the home, placement into protective custody. Figure 3 illustrates the way CPS may become involved with a family.

Domestic Violence Related Child Abuse Allegations

Utah recognizes domestic violence in the presence of a child as child abuse. When a domestic violence situation occurs where a child is present, law enforcement is required to contact CPS to report allegations of domestic violence. Calls may come in from the community as well. Although parameters have changed with regard to the types of case that CPS is able to accept, DCFS may still provide referrals to community resources.

Trends of Domestic Violence Related CPS Cases Statewide

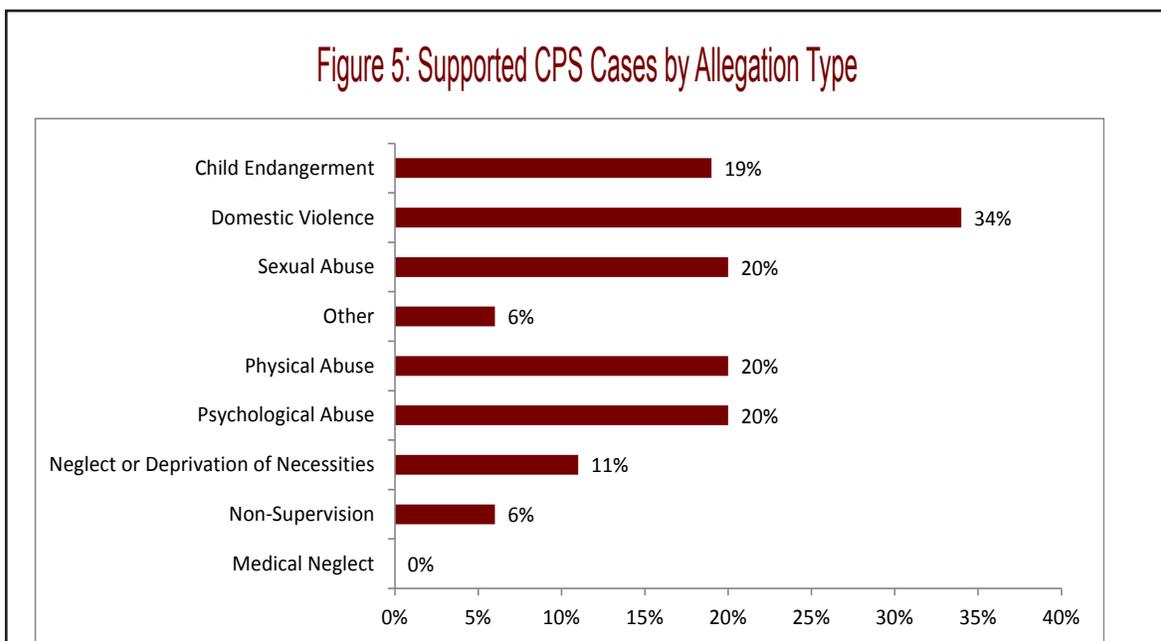

Domestic Violence related child abuse continues to be the most frequently supported allegation. One case may have more than one element or supported allegation. This may include more than one allegation type, victim or perpetrator; therefore, the percentages in Figure 4 add up to more than 100%. For more information and definitions, please see the definitions section of DCFS Practice Guidelines at <http://www.hspolicy.utah.gov/dcfs/>.

DCFS staff opened 4,504 cases of alleged domestic violence–related child abuse last year. Of those, 2,582 were substantiated. Figure 4 shows the number of CPS cases that include an allegation of domestic violence in the presence of a child. Approximately 34% of all supported investigations include domestic violence as a contributing factor.

Sexual Abuse Allegations

Substantiation of sexual abuse, physical abuse, and psychological abuse allegations, were the second most frequent allegation type at 20% with. Figure 5 illustrates the percentage of allegations by type for FY2011. A single case may include more than one allegation type, victim or perpetrator; therefore, the percentages add up to more than 100%.

Utah Department of Public Safety, Bureau of Criminal Identification

The Bureau of Criminal Identification (BCI) is mandated to collect and publish crime statistics. BCI publishes an annual report that contains data collected from law enforcement agencies. The data is reported to BCI in two formats, summary and incident based reporting (IBR). The summary data only represents the most serious offense reported in an incident, while IBR will represent all the offenses reported in an incident. Because IBR collects details about the offenses, victims, offenders, property and arrests involved in each crime incident, it is possible to analyze various aspects of the crime occurring in our society.

Not all law enforcement agencies in Utah report using the IBR format, therefore statistics based on IBR do not represent the entire population of Utah. Out of 142 total law enforcement agencies, 68 agencies submitted IBR data and 14 agencies did not submit data either to the summary or IBR programs. These data are compiled from the 2010 Preliminary Report and the data may change when the final report is published.

Incident-Based Reporting Domestic Violence Analysis

Domestic Violence is not a specific offense in IBR reporting. Data is compiled by using the offense and the relationship between the victim and offender. The chart below shows the total number of incidents reported by IBR agencies in Utah committed by family members by year.

Utah Department of Public Safety, Bureau of Criminal Identification

Table 1 lists offenses reported by IBR agencies in 2011 by the type of victim, where a family or intimate relationship was indicated. The most common relationship reported is boyfriend or girlfriend (30%), followed by spouse (19%). If common-law spouses, ex-spouses, and homosexual relationships are added, intimate partners accounted for over half (51%) of the total offenses involving family members.

IBR data also provide information on the types of injuries suffered by victims of domestic violence during the offenses listed in below in Table 2 which provides data on injuries suffered during these incidents. Multiple injuries could be recorded for a single incident if multiple injuries occurred. The most likely outcome of these offenses was no injury (56%), followed by apparent minor injuries (40%).

Finally, IBR data can be used to analyze the types of weapons that are used in domestic violence incidents (Table 3). The following table includes information on only those incidents where a weapon was used. Multiple weapons could be reported if more than one weapon was used. Personal weapons, which would include hands or feet, were the most commonly reported (87%).

Uniform Crime Reporting Rape Analysis

Data on the offense of rape are collected through the Uniform Crime Reporting (UCR) system established by the FBI. When using these data, it is important to remember that these summary data only list the most serious offense in a crime incident. Also, according to the FBI's definition of rape, the only offenses included are those where the victim is female. Forcible rape, as defined by UCR, is the carnal knowledge of a female forcibly and against her will. Assaults and attempts to commit rape by force or threat of force are also included; however, statutory rape (without force) and other sex offenses are excluded. These data are compiled from the 2011 Preliminary Report which may change when the final report is published.

Utah Administrative Office of the Court

The Administrative Office of the Courts provides administrative services to Utah's Court system, including the Supreme Court, the Court of Appeals, and the District Courts. Data used in this section of the report have been provided by the AOC for the District Courts. The District Courts are divided into 8 geographical regions (Table 6).

Civil Co-Habitant Abuse Case Filings

Cohabitant abuse case filings are a civil case type where a petition for protective order is filed. The parties must have lived together as husband and wife, boyfriend/girlfriend, or they have a child in common. Figure 9 indicates a steady decline in civil co-habitant abuse cases filed between 2002 and 2007. The number of civil co-habitant abuse case filings in 2011 was 4898; the fewest filings since 2007.

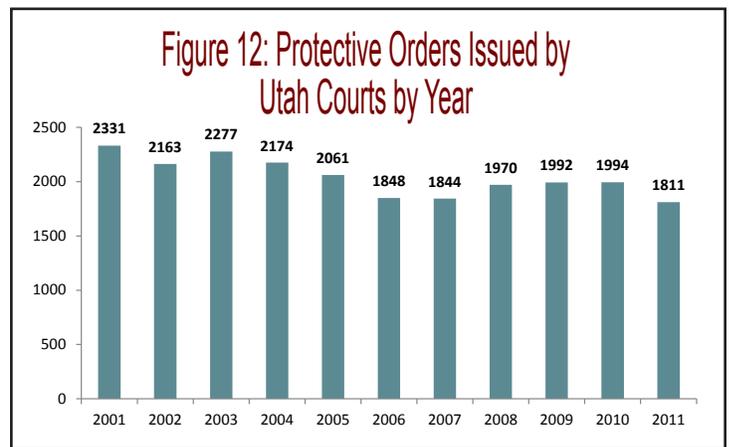

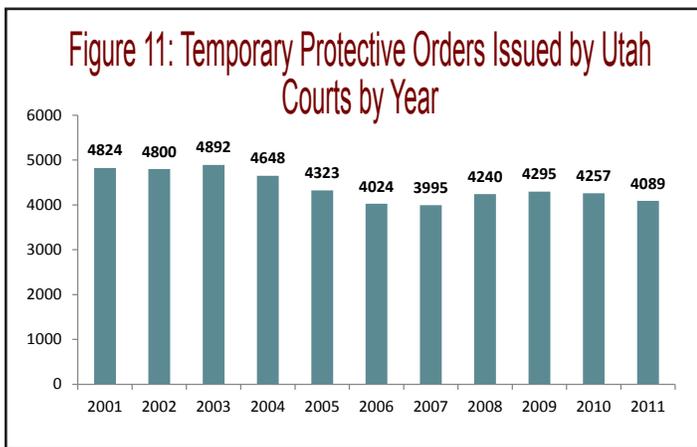

Civil cohabitant abuse case filings in 2011 are shown by court district in Figure 10. The Third District, which includes Salt Lake County, accounts for 42% of these cases.

Protective Orders

A protective order is designed to provide protection under the law for those affected by domestic violence. Protective orders prohibit the respondent from contacting, threatening, or entering onto the property of the petitioner and protected parties. A temporary protective order can be issued the day it is requested, without the respondent being present. These orders are also referred to as ex-parte protective orders. Temporary protective orders are enforceable from the time a respondent is provided a copy, until the hearing on the permanent protective order is held. The respondent is served a copy of the temporary protective order by law enforcement which indicates the court hearing date when both the petitioner and respondent will be heard by the judge.

After a court hearing, the court may issue a protective order, which includes enforceable criminal provisions that protect the victim for two years. Conditions in these protective orders are specified in Utah Code, Title 78B, Chapter 7 Protective Orders. The number of temporary protective orders (Figure 11) and final protective orders (Figure 12) issued by the courts in cohabitant abuse cases both decreased from the prior year.

In calendar year 2011, 4,089 temporary protective orders and 1,811 protective orders were issued. Figure 13 and Table 7 show the number of orders issued in 2011 by court district. The largest number of orders was issued by 3rd District Court which includes Salt Lake County.

Criminal Stalking

Stalking is generally described as a pattern or course of conduct directed at or towards a specific person that causes a person to fear for that person's safety, the safety of another, or causes either person to suffer emotional distress.

Figure 14 shows the number of criminal stalking cases filed over the last ten years. In calendar year 2011, 214 criminal stalking cases were filed in Utah's courts; a 16-percent increase from the prior year. (See Figure 15 and Table 8.)

Utah Department of Health Violence and Injury Prevention Program

The Violence and Injury Prevention Program (VIPPP) collaborates with many partners to:

1. Reduce motor vehicle-related injuries and fatalities in Utah,
2. Reduce community and family violence in Utah, and
3. Collect, assess, and distribute data on the impact of violence and injury of Utahns.

Domestic Violence Fatality Review and Utah Violent Death Reporting System

The Utah Violent Death Reporting System (UTVDRS) is an incident-based system that collects detailed information from death certificates, medical examiner records, police reports, crime lab records, and supplemental homicide reports on all violent deaths in Utah. Homicides, suicides, deaths of undetermined intent, unintentional firearm-related deaths, and deaths due to legal intervention are all considered violent deaths for the purpose of the data collection.

An intimate partner violence module is included in UTVDRS to collect data specific to cases reviewed by the Domestic Violence Fatality Review Committee (DVFRFC). The DVFRFC has been in existence for more than nine years and recently finished reviewing 2009 cases. The DVFRFC meets monthly from January through June to provide a comprehensive review of domestic violence-related homicides and develop recommendations for future prevention efforts. The following are the DVFRFC's domestic violence-related homicide and suicide definitions:

Domestic Violence-related Homicide

1. The victim is 18 years or older at the time of death;
2. The manner of death is designated as a homicide by the Office of the Medical Examiner or a suspect is charged with criminal homicide by law enforcement; and
3. The relationship of the victim and suspect can include:
  - a. Current or former intimate partner;
  - b. Cohabitants (roommates); or
  - c. Family members (including in-laws, stepparents, stepchildren, stepsiblings, current or former intimate partner family members, and foster parents or children).

Domestic Violence-related Suicide

1. The victim is 18 years or older at the time of death;
2. The manner of death is designated as a suicide by the Office of the Medical Examiner;
3. The incident includes violence or the threat of violence between:
  - a. Current or former intimate partners;
  - b. Cohabitants (roommates); or
  - c. Family members (including in-laws, stepparents, stepchildren, stepsiblings, current or former intimate partner family members, and foster parents or children); and
4. The incident includes one of the following circumstances:
  - a. Intimate partner problem;
  - b. Other relationship problem;
  - c. Perpetrator of interpersonal violence in the past month; or
  - d. Victim of interpersonal violence in the past month.

Utah Department of Health Violence and Injury Prevention Program

The data in Figure 16 represent the percentage of adult domestic violence-related homicides among all adult homicides. Since 2000, domestic violence-related homicides accounted for approximately 39.8% of adult homicides.

The data in Figure 17 represent the Utah domestic violence-related homicide rate per 100,000 persons 18 years and older from 2000-2010 according to the DVFRC definition. During this ten-year period, there were a total of 202 domestic violence-related homicides for an average of 18 deaths per year. Domestic violence-related homicides peaked in 2001 with a rate of 1.7 per 100,000 adults; however, there were no significant differences in domestic violence-related homicides from 2000 to 2010.

Utah Department of Health Violence and Injury Prevention Program

The data in Figure 18 represent the Utah domestic violence-related suicide rate per 100,000 persons 18 years and older by sex from 2005 to 2008. Research has shown that females attempt suicide more often, but males tend to complete suicide more often. In Utah, males were more likely to die from a DV-related suicide compared to females and had a significantly higher rate of DV-related suicides than females.

The DV-related suicide victims ranged in age from 19-88 years old. The data in Figure 19 represent the domestic violence-related suicide rate by age group from 2005 to 2008. When compared to the state rate of 2.3 per 100,000 adults, persons 55 years and older had a statistically lower rate at 1.1 per 100,000 adults. There were no significant differences in the other age groups. The average age of victims who died from DV-related suicide was 39 years old.

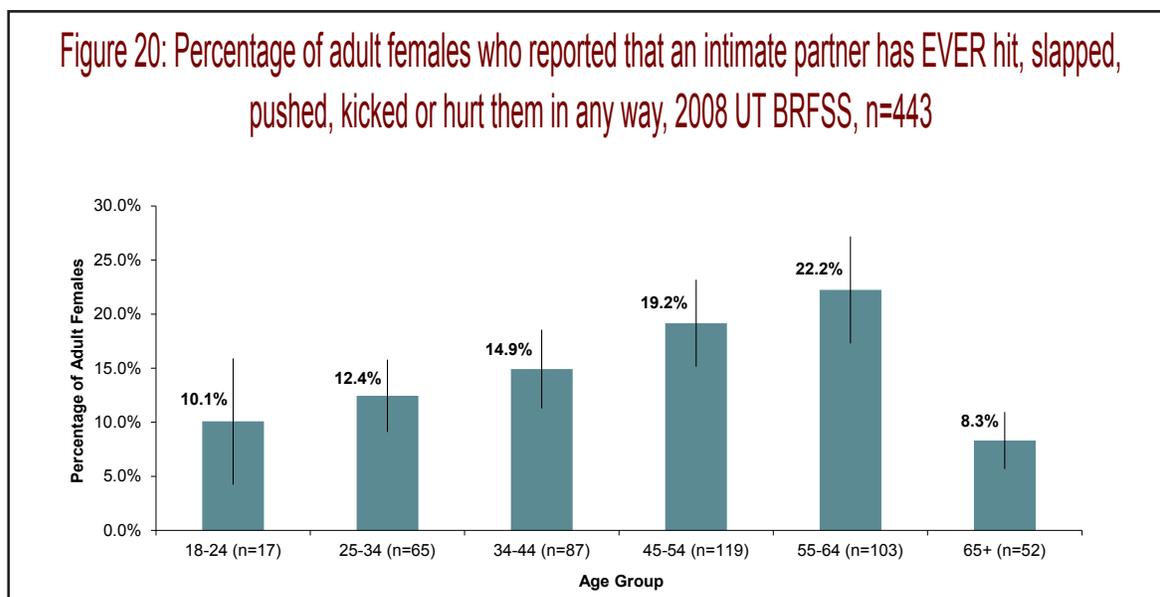

The data in Figure 19 represent the domestic violence-related suicide rate by age group from 2005 to 2008. When compared to the state rate of 2.3 per 100,000 adults, persons 65 years and older had a statistically lower rate at 0.8 per 100,000 adults. There were no significant differences in the other age groups.

Utah Behavioral Risk Surveillance System

The Behavioral Risk Factor Surveillance System (BRFSS) tracks health conditions and risk behaviors in the United States. The Utah BRFSS is conducted by the Office of Public Health Assessment at the Utah Department of Health. In 2008, questions regarding Intimate Partner Violence (IPV) were asked of females 18 years and older. An intimate partner included any current or former spouse, boyfriend, or girlfriend. Anyone the interviewee was dating, or romantically or sexually intimate with was also considered an intimate partner.

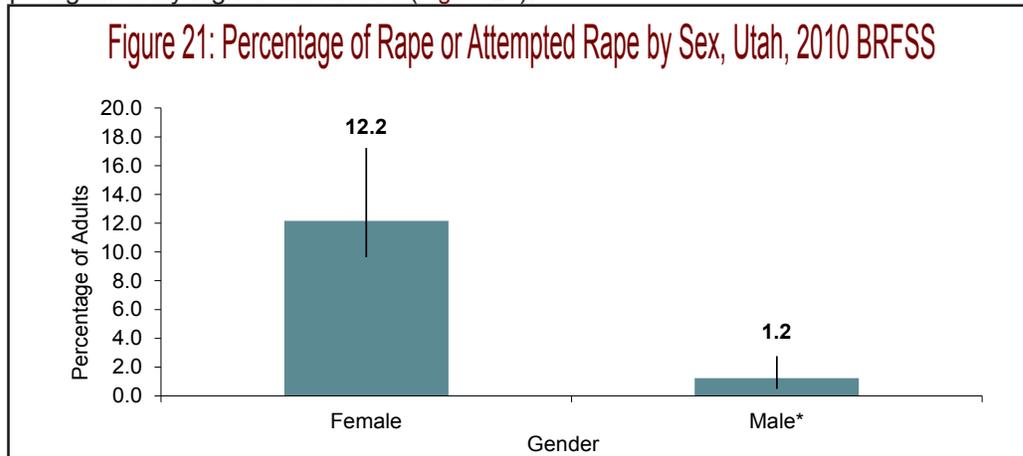

Overall, 14.2% of females reported experiencing IPV in their lifetime. The data in Figure 20 show the percentage of adult females by age group who reported that an intimate partner had ever hit, slapped, pushed, kicked, or hurt them in any way. Females 45-54 years of age (19.2%) and 55-64 years of age (22.2%) had a statistically higher reported lifetime prevalence of IPV compared to the state prevalence of IPV of 14.2%. Females 65 years and older had a statistically lower reported lifetime prevalence of IPV compared to the state prevalence of IPV (8.3% and 14.2%, respectively).

Of the females who reported IPV, 7.8% indicated that they had experienced IPV in the past 12 months. Of these females, 38.5%* reported that they had sustained physical injuries such as bruises, cuts, scrapes, a black eye, or broken bone as a result of the physical violence. Of the perpetrators, 39.1% were husbands or a male live-in partner, 27.2% were former husbands or former live-in partners, and 25.7% were former boyfriends.

Utah Department of Health Violence and Injury Prevention Program

In 2010, questions regarding sexual violence (SV) and adverse childhood experiences (ACEs) were asked of the Utah population 18 years and older. The ACE Study is an ongoing collaboration between the Kaiser Health Plans' Health Appraisal Center and the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC). The objective of the study is to assess the impact of numerous interrelated adverse childhood experiences on a wide variety of health behaviors and outcomes such as violence. Overall, 6.8% of Utahns reported rape or attempted rape in their lifetime in 2010. Females reported rape or attempted rape significantly higher than males (Figure 21).

*Insufficient number of cases to meet the Utah Department of Health standard for data reliability. Interpret with caution.

Table 9 shows the prevalence of adverse childhood experiences related to physical, emotional, and sexual abuse. Females were significantly more likely to have experienced a form of sexual abuse as a child compared to males. Thirty eight percent of all Utahns 18 years and older experienced emotional abuse as a child and 17.1% experienced physical abuse. The more ACEs a person experienced, the more likely they were to have experienced rape or attempted rape (Figure 22).

Utah Youth Risk Behavioral Surveillance System

The Youth Risk Behavior Surveillance System (YRBSS) monitors priority health risk behaviors that contribute to the leading causes of death, disability, and social problems among youth and adults in the United States. The Utah YRBSS is conducted every two years and provides data representative of 9th through 12th grade students in public schools throughout Utah.

Data in Figure 23 show the percentage of students who reported they were hit, slapped, or physically hurt on purpose by their boyfriend or girlfriend during the 12 months before the survey compared to the U.S. There are no significant differences in percentages between Utah and the U.S. from 1999 to 2011.

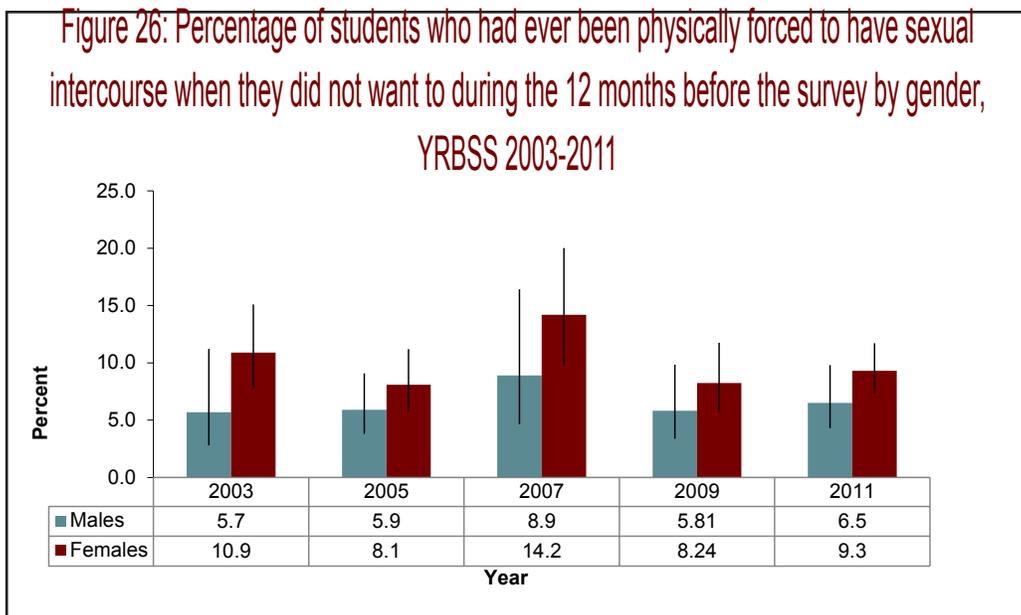

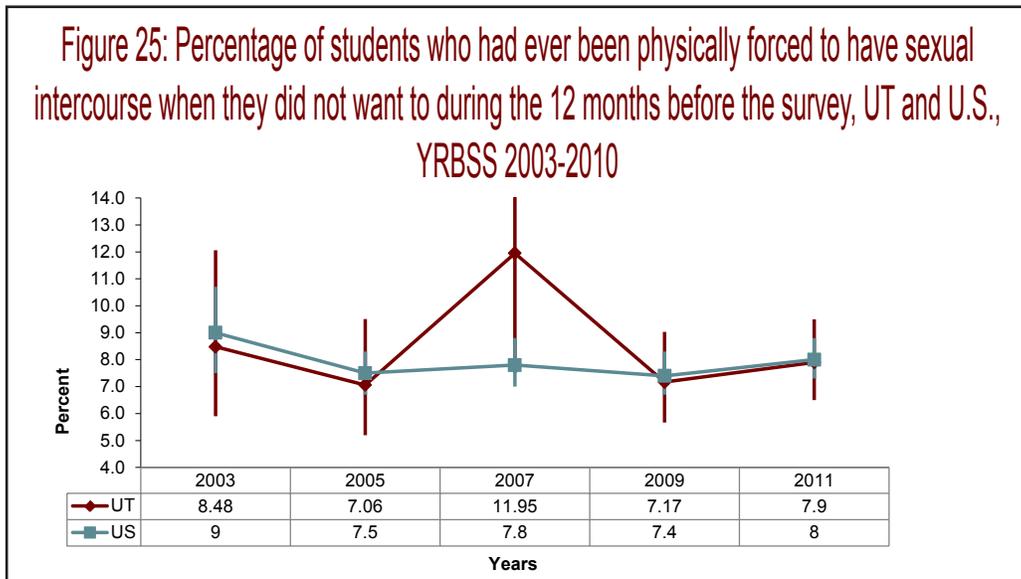

Data in Figure 24 compare the percentage of students who experienced IPV by sex from 1999 to 2009. There were no significant differences of reported IPV by males and females. In 2007, Utah high school students reported the highest prevalence of experiencing violence from a boyfriend or girlfriend since 1999 at 12.6%. The lowest prevalence was in 2003 at 7.9%.

Utah Department of Health Violence and Injury Prevention Program

Data in Figure 25 show the percentage of students who had ever been physically forced to have sexual intercourse when they did not want to during the 12 months before the survey compared to the U.S. There are no significant differences in percentages between Utah and the U.S. from 1999 to 2010.

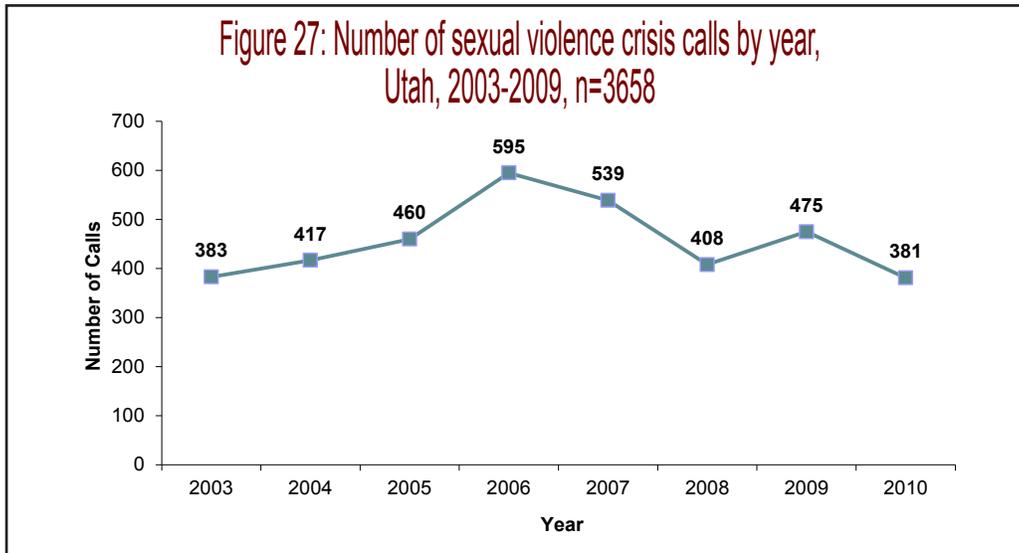

Data in Figure 26 compare the percentage of male and female students who experienced forced sexual intercourse from 1999 to 2011. There were no significant differences of reported forced sexual intercourse by male and female students. In 2007, Utah high school female students reported the highest prevalence of experiencing forced sexual intercourse at 14.2%. The lowest prevalence was in 2005 at 8.1%.

Utah Department of Health Violence and Injury Prevention Program
Rape Prevention and Education

The Violence and Injury Prevention Program (VIPP) receives Rape Prevention and Education federal funds for small contracts with community based organizations to provide sexual assault primary prevention programs in their communities. In addition, VIPP established the first statewide crisis resource hotline in the Intermountain West, known as the Sexual Violence Statewide Crisis and Information Line (1-888-421-1100).

Data in Figure 27 show the number of calls to the Sexual Violence Statewide Crisis and Information Line from 2003 to 2009.

Data in Table 10 show the number of people reached by primary prevention activities according to the Annual Report submitted to VIPP by each Rape Prevention and Education Grantee.

Commission on Criminal and Juvenile Justice

Dating Violence in the U.S. and Utah

National data show that unmarried individuals experience nonlethal intimate partner violence (i.e., assault) at rates only surpassed by individuals who were separated or divorced from their partners. In recent years, women are just as likely to be murdered by dating partners as spouses. Dating violence in the United States and Utah is experienced by adolescents, young adults, and older adults in dating relationships, though the dynamics may differ according to age group.

National Incident-based Reporting System (NIBRS) data in Utah, which provides information on victim-offender relationship, show that dating partners account for a significantly higher percentage of assaults, rapes, and kidnappings than spousal relationships.

NOTE: Incident-based reporting does not cover all offenses in the state, only those from reporting agencies (~75%).

According to the 2007 Rape in Utah survey, 15.7% of rapes and 17.8% of attempted rapes (10.6% of overall sexual assaults) against Utah women are committed by boyfriends or ex-boyfriends. A survey conducted by the Utah Department of Health (in conjunction with the CDC) in 2008 found that 8.4% of women 18 or older experienced physical assault by a current or former intimate partner, almost a third (31.1%) of which were committed in the context of a dating relationship.

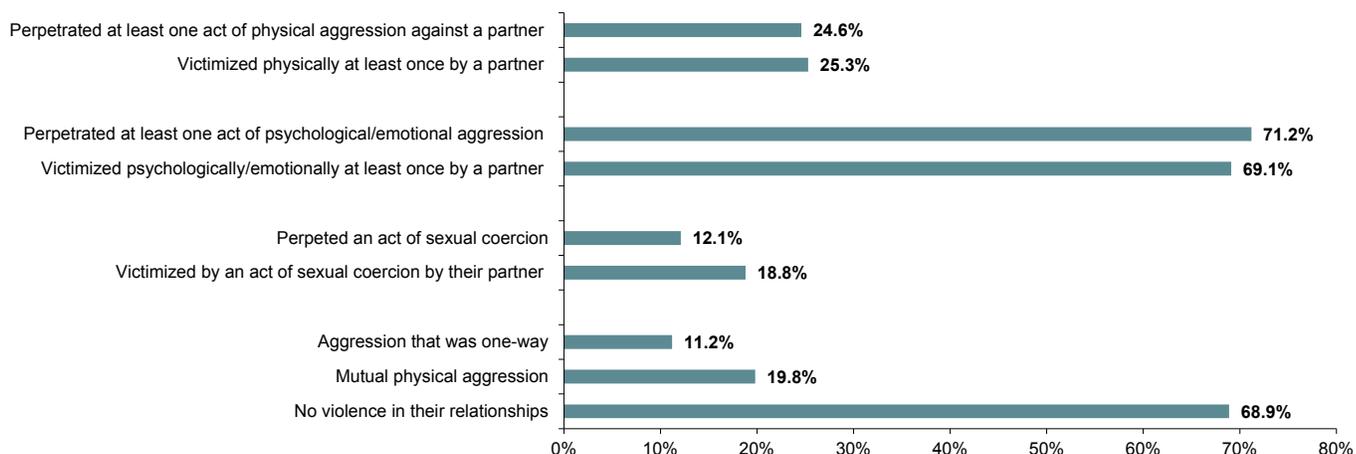

The 2010 Utah Crime Survey found that 9.9% of violent person crime victimization in the previous year (and 11.8% over the lifetime) was experienced at the hands of a boyfriend or girlfriend. In a survey of University of Utah students, 22% reported physical violence, 36% jealous controlling behavior, and 47% emotional abuse in dating relationships in the previous 12 months.

A separate study by CCJJ on homicides in Utah between 2000 and 2008 showed that 13% were committed by spouses or ex-spouses and 6.7% by boyfriends/girlfriends or ex-boyfriends/girlfriends. From 2000-2004, dating partners accounted for 3.7% of homicides in the state, whereas from 2005-2008, this percentage had grown to 10.5% (20 of the 29 overall, or 69%, in these last four years).

Utah Survey on Conflict in Relationships (2010-2011)

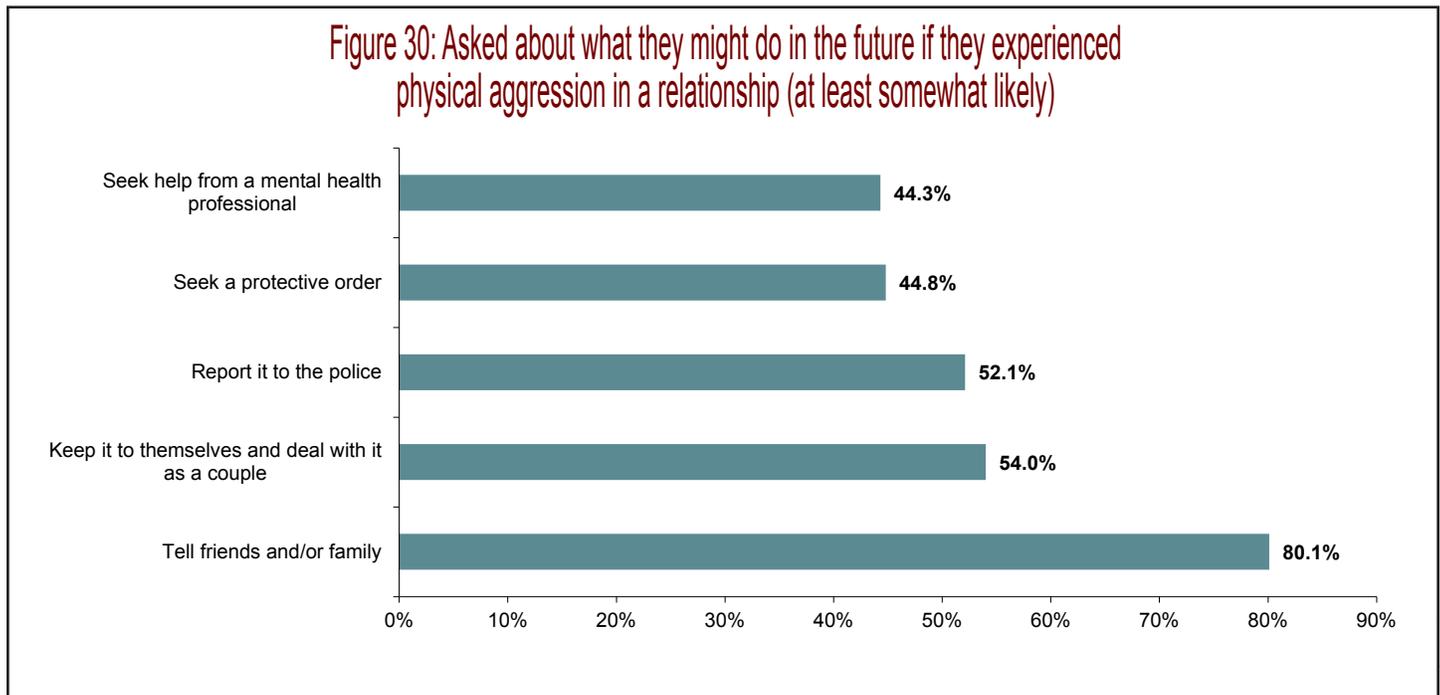

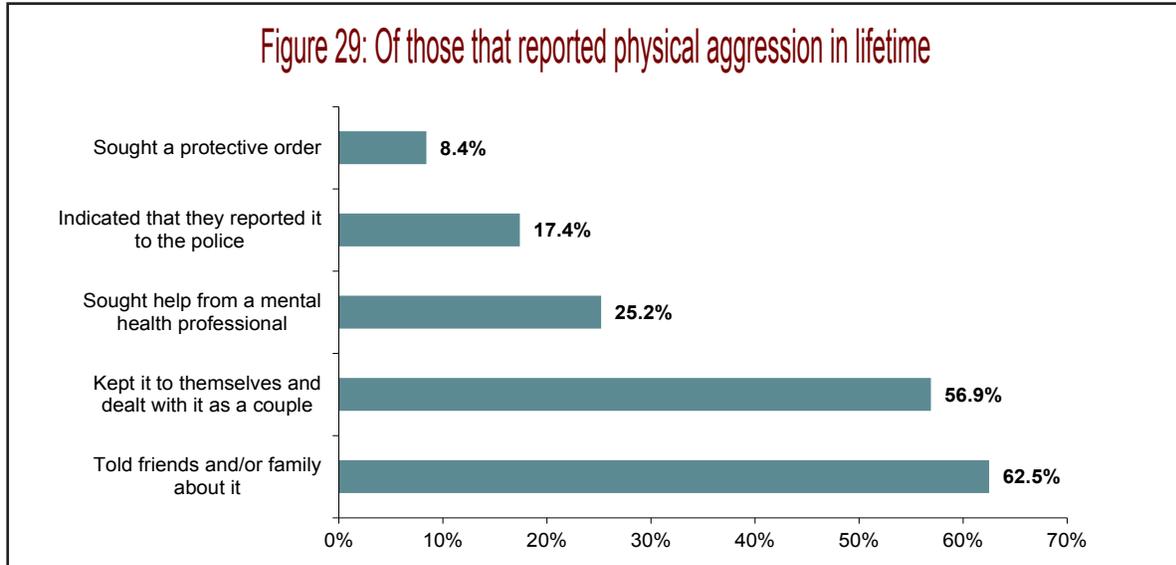

A survey was constructed to assess perpetration of and victimization by aggressive acts in relationships (dating and marital) in the previous year, general lifetime victimization at the hands of a partner, as well as associated variables. The survey targeted college students at 4-year and 2-year schools across the state. 1,863 students responded to the online survey (64.5% female, 86.2% White, mean age = 22.0). 85.3% were in at least one relationship in the previous year (79.1% dating, 20.9% married). A well-established acts-based assessment instrument was used, which assesses the presence and frequency of acts of physical and psychological/emotional aggression in response to relationship conflicts, as well as sexual coercion and injuries. Acts are classified as minor or severe (Figure 28).

Commission on Criminal and Juvenile Justice

Dating partners are more likely to perpetrate and be victimized by physical violence (especially severe) than married partners, while married partners are more likely to perpetrate and be victimized by psychological/emotional aggression and sexual coercion (Figure 29). Females were more likely to perpetrate physical aggression, and to perpetrate and be victimized by psychological/emotional aggression, in relationships, while males were more likely to perpetrate acts of sexual coercion (and females more likely to be victimized). Injuries were experienced by 4.2% of respondents in the previous year and inflicted by 2.1%. Dating partners and females were more likely to experience and inflict injuries than married partners and males. In addition to acts-based violence, all respondents were asked in general if they have ever experienced physical or psychological/emotional aggression from an intimate partner. 9.6% reported having experienced physical aggression in a relationship at some point in their lives, and 26.7% reported having experienced psychological/emotional aggression (Figure 30).

Utah Coalition Against Sexual Assault

The Utah Coalition Against Sexual Assault (UCASA) serves as an advocacy organization for programs and individuals that are engaged in sexual violence prevention and response in Utah. UCASA provides resources, training and technical support and facilitates the development of multi-disciplinary teams to respond to sexual violence throughout the state. Agencies and individuals served by UCASA include victim advocates, law enforcement, prosecutors, medical professionals, educators, clergy, therapists, rape crisis programs, domestic violence shelters, and university or college campus programs.

Confidential Communications

The Confidential Communications for Sexual Assault Act was established under the Utah Rights of Crime Victims Act with the purpose of promoting “the mental, physical and emotional recovery of victims of sexual assault and to protect the information given by victims to sexual assault counselors from being disclosed.”

Only certified sexual assault counselors working at a recognized rape crisis center can guarantee confidentiality, within mandate, through compliance with the Confidential Communications for Sexual Assault Act in Utah (Utah Criminal Code Section 77-38-201:204).

Rape Crisis Advocacy Training

UCASA's 40-hour Rape Crisis Advocacy Training provides the required certification for sexual assault counselors to be covered under Utah's Confidential Communications Act. This training is also open to professionals or community members who want to improve their understanding of sexual violence and the impact it has on survivors. In 2011, 286 participants completed UCASA's Rape Crisis Advocacy Training. An additional 532 advocates and allied professionals participated in professional development and advanced topic training provided by UCASA staff.

Sexual Assault Response Teams (SARTs)

A Sexual Assault Response Team (SART) is a partnership formed between public and private agencies to establish a coordinated response to victims of sexual assault that is victim centered and holds offender's accountable. With the development of protocols and identification of best practices, SARTs ensure consistent, efficient, sensitive, and appropriate services that support victims of sexual violence and promote community safety.

The SART model has taken different forms in different communities. Currently, formalized SARTs are in existence in twelve Utah counties with several additional counties in capacity building stages of SART development. UCASA has partnered with stakeholders in these communities to provide training and technical assistance in the sustainability of SARTs and strengthen skills and facilitate increased collaboration.

When a survivor of sexual assault experiences a more compassionate and collaborative response, they may be more likely to come forward and report a sexual assault, make a police report and participate in prosecution.

Utah Domestic Violence Council

The Utah Domestic Violence Council (UDVC), a nonprofit organization incorporated in 1993, has a mission to make domestic violence intolerable in the neighborhoods and communities of Utah. UDVC provides public awareness, education, and advocacy for the community at large, and policy and training support for responders to domestic violence including domestic violence staff, domestic violence treatment providers, child welfare staff, faith leaders, legal services staff, and law enforcement officers. UDVC also sponsors meetings for domestic violence shelter directors and domestic violence treatment providers to discuss best practices and develop protocols for serving victims, survivors and their families. UDVC provides a 24 hour daily information and referral line- the Domestic Violence LinkLine (1-800-897-5465) which is answered by trained domestic violence specialists. UDVC supports the efforts of 22 Local Domestic Violence Coalitions and fosters collaboration among Utah agencies and organizations that touch upon victims and survivors lives through its four committees of Public Education, Professional Education, Government Affairs and Advocacy and Collaboration. UDVC has a strong voting membership of 36 representatives of legal services, business, health care, victim advocates, domestic violence shelter directors, Division of Child & Family Services, Commission on Criminal & Juvenile Justice, Crime Victims Reparations, and the Utah Prosecution Council. A 12 member Board of Directors oversees the strategic plan and budget. UDVC has a staff of seven full-time professionals, four contracted personnel and five volunteers. UDVC is committed to cultural competency in response to domestic violence and in engaging leadership in its mission.

UDVC Link Line

Figure 31 shows that the number of calls received by the domestic violence crisis line 1-800-897-LINK (5465) has remained relatively constant over the last 5 years. Table 12 shows the number of calls made to the link line during 2011. Table 13 shows the domestic violence referrals made in 2010 by type of referral.
